Course Description

The 2013 Annual Wound Care Symposium is a one-day conference designed to:

- Improve the level of understanding of current wound and skin care products and issues for special patient populations
- Enhance wound, skin, and nutrition assessment, intervention, and utilization of Best Practice tools
- Provide practical steps that can be taken to minimize risks for device and OR related pressure ulcers
- Provide the latest research on the science of deep tissue injury pressure ulcers
- Provide information on current bioburden management strategies as they relate to patients with wound care issues.

Course Objectives

Upon completion of this seminar, the participant should be able to:

- Identify strategies for partnering with patients and families for successful wound healing.
- Discuss the essential treatment components included in the wound care toolkit across the continuum of healthcare from home to clinic to acute care.
- Identify prevention and treatment strategies for device and OR related skin integrity injury.
- Discuss the impact of nutrition in the assessment and treatment of patients.
- Describe the basic and advanced elements of burn care and transfer criteria.
- Describe new scientific findings regarding deep tissue injury pressure ulcers.
- Discuss the implications of bioburden in wound care, including prevention and treatment.
